What's New In AutoCAD?

Under the Hood New and improved operations such as exposure compensation, color correction and presets in the Print dialog box. A new hidden toolbar for alignment and other more specialized tools. Extended 2D Object Functionality Extend your 2D drawing experience with new tools for creating and editing 2D lines, curves and polylines. Color Schemes: Create multiple color schemes for a color document and quickly switch between them in any object. Use the new color wheel to quickly change between predefined colors. (video: 1:09 min.) New Illustration Tools Work with points, lines and polylines to create complex illustrations. You can easily add text or shapes to your paths, resulting in a modern, 3D look. 3D Retopology: Create and edit 3D surfaces. Retopology lets you selectively remove parts of your model to increase the detail and improve the appearance. (video: 1:30 min.) Paths and Structures: Create complex, dynamically moving paths. The path function can now have independent start and end points and move objects like a coordinate system. (video: 1:14 min.) Hairline and Color: Create and edit polylines with fine lines that are connected only to the boundaries of other objects. Cut out unwanted parts of your model with the new Hairline tool. (video: 1:02 min.) Speed Up Vector Editing: Edit your geometry faster with a number of new editing tools. Free up drawing space with the new Vector Clear option and manipulate your geometry with a snap to grid tool. Video Editors Video Editors now support up to 4K video, allowing you to edit high quality videos with the tools you are used to. High Dynamic Range (HDR): A new color tool for creating high-dynamic-range (HDR) images. The HSL system has a number of new adjustment settings that can be used in all scenes. Exposure Compensation: A new scene for controlling the exposure of your image. Exposure can be adjusted individually for the foreground and background, and you can apply the change to multiple areas. (video: 1:07 min.) Improved Terrain Editor: The terrain editor now supports UTM and Zone 51. The in-place style editor lets you change the appearance of an area without changing the style of the entire scene
