how to install Win 7 cd drivers A: Its probably a conflict between the latest driver you are using and the latest vista service pack that came out. Run the older vista x86 service pack first and it should install the drivers. Then when your done run the vista sp1 x86. For Win7 see this link For Win8, 8.1 and 10 see this link Q: Define a function to be only called if a certain value is in the function arguments I have a function with many inputs and arguments. If any of the inputs are not included in the function arguments, I don't want the function to be called. I have a normal numpy.array value_to_check that determines if the function is going to be called or not. def my_func(arg1, arg2, value_to_check): if value_to_check == np.array(True): do_my_thing() return #Do stuff that does not use arg1, arg2 return I call my_func using the following manner: my_func(arg1=foo_object, arg2=bar_object, value_to_check=np.array(True)) In order to check if value_to_check is True or False I must modify value_to_check to be np.array(True). Is there a way to not do that so that my_func only gets called if value_to_check is True? I would like to do that without modifying the value_to_check. So far I have tried: def my_func(arg1, arg2): if arg1 is None: do_my_thing() return if arg2 is None: do_my_thing() return if arg1 is not None and arg2 is not None: #do something return The above code works great for sure. But I don't know how to expand this to the
