What's New in the?

My clients have over 250 contracts with many different parties to administer and manage. Due to the complexity, inefficiencies and manual processes which have occurred, i wanted to find an easy-to-use and intuitive solution. I stumbled across MiniContractManager. I found it to be a slick, easy-to-use software solution that allows you to manage and resolve multiple contracts at the same time, and easily assign multiple contacts to different parties, manage email notifications and automatically follow up with outbound email when it comes to one of your contracts being overdue. In terms of pricing, it's very fair. I've been testing the software for a number of weeks, and can honestly say it's a solution I'd recommend without hesitation. It's not the easiest software out there to use, but there are comprehensive help files and the team behind this product are very responsive and continue to update the software regularly, and also release helpful updates on a regular basis. Overall, a terrific investment for any small business or start-up, and a price that will leave you with less stress and time spent sorting out your contracts. It's a solid solution that I'm sure will impress, without fail. The only downside I see to this software is that it doesn't allow you to have an automated reminder emails with a deadline. It takes some time to install, but once you've installed and loaded contracts it's easy to navigate around. It is well thought out and easy to use. It would be easy to see a potential in a pre-made template for contracts. It could do with the ability to have automated reminders for the due dates of contracts. Are you using cloud based document management?
