File Size: 38.8 MB IdentaFone Pro Review A more affordable solution than Vonage If you want a home-based VoIP phone system with which to make and receive calls with a distinctive and professional touch, then consider Vonage's free Vonage Home Phone service. There are no monthly or long-term contracts to worry about, and if you do make a mistake, the company will cover your phone bills while you work out the kinks. Features The Vonage Home Phone service offers you a free box of hardware, allowing you to make calls, record calls, and store them for later. You get unlimited local and long distance calling and the services are billed monthly on a credit-card-like basis. The Vonage Home Phone service isn't quite as advanced as a virtual PBX phone system such as the one from Vonage, and

What's New In?

IdentaFone Pro is a handy caller ID manager and telephone assistant that can help you keep track of who's calling you by providing you with their caller IDs and letting you build a database using the collected information. After the caller information has been retrieved, this program can announce the callers' names through your computer speakers whenever you're receiving a new call from them. More so, it is possible to send the collected information to a pager or a cell phone and even via email or broadcast messages. Identity Verification - Protect you from Spammers With all the features above, you can spend less time on phone calls and more time on other things. This is because the program has a feature called "identity verification" that allows you to get your own email address and have an option to verify email addresses of other people too. System Requirements:

I had a rare opportunity to make this mod with no sleep, no eating and no human contact (I hope you can appreciate it.) The huge challenge I had to solve was the response speed. The graphics are not that important, as there is no need for a highly animated interface. What is important is that when you press a key, the actor reacts to it. The key has to be pressed in a tight time frame. A bad response time will make it impossible to hold down a key and not mash it. I am open to suggestions and criticisms, but no
