Clipboard - Orphan clip support - Ability to copy and paste text directly from the removable diskPurpose We often use jQuery to enable our site to animate, sort, reflow and manipulate elements in any way we want. While this works well, there's an inherent property of JavaScript which makes some people uncomfortable: no matter what you do, the way it was before won't be the same way it is now. That means we lose the site's integrity because of the eventual downscaling of text sizes and strange layout changes. And that's something many people don't realize. To work around this, we've developed the Underscore.js library (It's used behind the scenes on our site and consists of a bunch of native JavaScript functions, which work around the way JavaScript works so that users don't have to worry about it. Installation Install it through npm: npm install underscore Usage To use it, first reference it: Then use it as you normally would: // assuming you have the Underscore library referenced $.aeroMenu.animation(); $.aeroMenu.reflow(); $. b7e8fdf5c8
