It will resize images faster than any other program you have ever seen. Jpegresizer maintains the quality of your images by keeping the original jpg or jpeg quality intact. It will not compress your images (lossy) or degrade image quality (lossless). Image resizing is a process that changes the size of a picture without changing the original quality. For example, a picture that was originally 4000 pixels in width, and 1000 pixels in height, can be made 6000 pixels in width, and 1500 pixels in height, or vice versa. Jpegresizer makes image resizing quick and easy. With its intuitive and fast interface, Jpegresizer allows you to control the size of your images in several different ways. Using its built-in wizard, you can create, resize, and restore customized sizes of your images in a few simple steps. The wizard will determine how much space is available, or how much you can fit inside a certain space. Next, it will determine the best size for the image. With its help, you can resize the images to as little as 7 pixels, or as big as 9000 pixels! Once you have determined how much space you need to fit the image, Jpegresizer will resize the image so that it fits the allotted space. You will be prompted to enter a new size or reset the program to the default and automatically fit images. As you can see, all you need to do is drag the image into the left or right side of the window, and press Enter when you're done. Jpegresizer does the rest.
