The Toronto Police Service was working on a homicide investigation when they got an anonymous tip. The caller had found an envelope in her mailbox from a woman in Hamilton. It had the name "Marilyn" written on the outside and a photo of a woman with a gunshot wound to the head. When police opened the envelope, they found a photo of the victim and photos of the killer with the victim's bloodstained clothes. Marilyn wrote on the envelop that she killed him over a long term breakup and that he was abusive. She left a number of letters explaining why she would do that and how she would explain it to her family. The
