Despite her family's insistence that she was a Protestant, it appears that she may have been a Roman Catholic when she was executed. She spent eight years in prison after her husband, the King, discovered her conversion. He had her arrested in 1566 for treason – that is, for being a Roman Catholic. Later that year, she was found guilty of treason and sentenced to death. The Queen Mother is sometimes referred to as Queen Mary II. It should be noted that she bore no relation to Mary Tudor, Queen Mary I, although her mother was the sister of Mary's grandfather King Henry VII. The Queen is known to be such an astute judge of character that her suggestions are often questioned by her own family. She has told an interviewee that you need to have 'a good heart' to be a judge.Ikebana: (Traditional Japanese Flower Arrangement) Similar to the style of floral illustration, an ikebana arrangement captures the beauty of the natural world. Its message is simple. Flowers arranged with care and carefree abandon are both lovely. In the featured photo, a slender branch rises above heavy blossom. The branch gently frames the flowers and creates a sensual vase. While I achieved the outlined colors of the flowers and branch with acrylic paint and gouache, the process was incredibly laborious. I selected each color by hand then sanded the edges to a smooth finish.Q: How to save a GWT EntryBox value on exit? I'm using the EntryBox, hoping to save its value on exit. I've seen this question: Save value of GWT EntryBox to a cookie Which is precisely what I need. I've tried setting the value on the EntryBox's onChange event, but it seems to be that it's called every time the user types something, so the value keeps updating. Is there a preferred way of doing this? Should I use the onChange event or should I write a method in the EntryBox.addValueChange 1cb139a0ed
