This game is about the War of the Roses. All characters are historically accurate. The game is based on historical records. Computer players take the roles of all opponents. There are no historical allies or fortresses. All the numbers and events in the game are calculated from historical records. Every noble has a unique starting position (e.g. the Duke of Buckingham starts in York with the game reversed). The game can be beaten with each faction having a single heir (e.g. Margret can win the game regardless of how well the other characters do). Players can win every single game by killing all the players. The game has no good or evil moral issues. The game has no option to bypass standard rules in favor of a "one-shot" game. All game materials are presented in a clear and concise way. Your single in-game character is a generic Duke who will take the role of any character in the game. The game scale is 2-4 players. The game is simple to learn. Most characters can be played in 2 hours.
