I have a Spinner in one of the columns. This Spinner is populated by a custom ArrayAdapter. I set OnItemSelectedListener for this spinner and tried to show the selected item with cursor.getString(1) in my onItemSelectedListener function. The problem is, that the value of this string is not as expected (i.e. it isn't the same as the text of the spinner item). The spinner item is successfully selected (I get the correct position in the listview) but the string value is not! I have found something called contentValues in the onItemSelectedListener function but I am unsure what I am supposed to do with it. A: What you need is the "view" (the object the list item is displayed as). So, use getItem() in the cursor (assuming that you are using CursorAdapter or similar), then getView() the spinner view as its a View: view.setOnItemSelectedListener(new OnItemSelectedListener() { public void onItemSelectedListener(AdapterView arg0, View v, int pos, long id) { // arg0 is your adapter (CursorAdapter or whatever), // arg0.getItem() is the object from cursor, // arg0.getView() is the view with the spinner, String selectedItem = ((TextView) v.findViewById(R.id.spinnerItem)).getText(); } public void onNothingSelected(AdapterView arg0) { // nop } }); A: This is how I achieved it: In my custom list adapter I populated the listview as normal. I then created a custom class that contains the dropdown options that the user can
