For a more in-depth look at the technologies and innovations used to power FIFA 22, check out our FUT Ratings – a resource that breaks down the technical ratings of each player in FIFA – and EA SPORTS' Gameplay Introduction for more on the advances EA has made in the field of video game representation of real football. The following are highlights of the FIFA World Cup™ scoring system and gameplay innovations used in FIFA 22. FUT Ratings FIFA's ongoing mission to provide its football fans with the most accurate ratings in-game ensures a true representation of football. For FIFA World Cup™, improvements were made to the accuracy of defending, using context to give players with the highest ratings more ability to find space on the ball. Combine the improvements to defending with the new and improved Player Impact Engine and you can see even more improvements in performance when in possession of the ball. For instance, players may have seemed to have higher ratings prior to FIFA 22, but their rating would drop if you used them as an impact player. With FIFA 22, even higher ratings, such as Rating 100, can now have an impact on game play, while the great player ratings you already know remain unchanged. Challenge Mode – We've improved the interaction between defending and attacking. Defenders with higher ratings give more protection to their teammates, while defenders with lower ratings are more vulnerable and less able to protect their teammates. Defenders who make more aggressive challenges when defending can also receive more yellow cards. When players move backwards, they are more likely to lose the ball on a tackle and face a higher chance of being dispossessed. Players with higher ratings are better at winning challenges, which allows them to regain the ball more frequently, giving them more control. The Ratings screen now shows a 3D representation of the player with thousands of individual statistics. You can highlight individual ratings to find out more, but we've also added the ability to highlight the whole Rating list to be able to see it at a glance. This enables you to discover which Rating list contains players from your squad. For more on the new scoring system and all its individual components, check out our Player Impact Engine Overview Face of Football Video Series Wearing football boots may be a fashion statement for some, but FIFA has used 3D scanning and graphics technology to design an accurate likeness for each player's

Other features Game modes such as UEFA Champions League and Liverpool Football Club are now back with improved gameplay and added excitement. FIFA 22 also introduces a new Transfer Market feature that allows you to buy and sell players' rights and instantly transfer them from one club to another. Transfer system As soon as a player signs a contract, you can decide whether or not to renew the player for a new contract, or if you wish to let the player go. Players must then be transferred and signed for the new club. In addition to this, before a new transfer can take place, the contract the player has agreed to at the old club must be ratified by both clubs; this means the player cannot be withdrawn by the club until this happens. To allow players to sell their players to your new club, a fee must first be paid to the old club. This fee is £6,000 for domestic players and £10,000 for foreign players. This fee is also the cost of the players contract renewal and it will be deducted from the fee paid to the old club. You can then decide whether you wish to keep the player or to let him go.
