HyperMotion Technology, like “Dynamic Accentuation,” is one of a trio of technologies on show at EA Play. “Sense of Touch” and “Dynamic Intensity” are others, combining player physics, graphics and animation to deliver authentic, unpredictable and interactive football on PS4, Xbox One and PC. All three technologies have been engineered by the FIFA team to deliver authentic, unpredictable and interactive football. The average United States player runs at 9.9 miles per hour (15.8 km per hour) with the ball, and players typically run at a velocity between 10.7 to 13.4 miles per hour (17.5 to 22.5 km per hour). “The FIFA team has achieved amazing new milestones by creating these technologies and using them in FIFA 22. We see the ability to capture and represent real-life movement in game as an amazing way to push the boundaries of player and game,” said Matthew Payne, Senior Producer and Creative Director on FIFA. “We will be announcing more on FIFA 22 on Friday, but the feedback we have gotten thus far is that there is no other football game that feels as grounded and authentic as FIFA. We cannot wait to share more on FIFA 22 at EA Play and look forward to hearing what players think about the new and improved game.” HyperMotion Technology Using data from high-intensity matches in motion capture suits, FIFA 22 uses new and improved animations, physics and player possessions and delivers a completely new visual experience for game-play action. For example, tackling an opponent with a proper hit sends them flying realistically. FIFA 22 also features more realistic behaviour from players in their transitions from static to dynamic gameplay, such as the ability to see the trajectory of a shot when making a pass or dribble, see the precise line of a player’s run, and make better decisions about when and where to make a pass. This is all based on in-game and real-life data from player movement and touches, such as possession, tackles and aerial duels. Realistic Player Possessions FIFA 22 continues to use the same real-world data to improve the mechanics, intelligence and AI behind football player possessions. A newly improved player possession algorithm is used to enable more attacking and defending team tactics, including the ability to slip and pass in unstructured areas of the pitch. Players in possession now perform realistic, more complex tugs of shirts and jerseys to

The FIFA franchise is one of the biggest names in sports video games and we don’t need to tell you why. FIFA has entertained fans for over two decades. In FIFA 19, we took things to the next level with a redesigned ball physics system that creates faster and more reactive ball movement, new animations and over 3,000 distinct player movements. If you’re serious about FIFA, you don’t take your year round training sessions for granted. You train day in and day out in a first-class facility to hone your game. So, we’re giving every club the very best training facilities and facilities are one of the most important aspects of the game. From the grass pitch to the artificial turf in front of your eyes, FIFA 20 brings the great stadiums to life with perfect pitch tracking and stadium animation. FIFA will be the only football game you need to have next year. New Game Play Our unique Y-axis breaking passing system makes advanced play and advanced movement even easier to execute. And we’re improving our goalkeeping with new goalkeeper rules that ensure that only three players can ever be together at one point in a match. If you want to play fair, opt for the new Focus mode to take the pressure off, because just one missed tackle can be game changing. We’re going to be giving more players their own individual skills. Personalised coaching, too. Get to know your team and use your player’s unique attributes to build a perfect formation – or just spam a player’s move script. The new cover mechanic is our biggest defensive feature and it will allow players to see clear lines to the ball and react quickly, so defending is even easier than it was in FIFA 19. Make sure you’re good to go with defence-advanced play, though, because our defensive AI is getting better and more organised and more attacking players are also harder to defend against. We also have a new all-new injury system that will get you out of trouble if you suffer a knock. And the new dribbling animation is a step closer to reality. FIFA Ultimate Team We’re bringing our popular Ultimate Team (FUT) mode to FIFA Ultimate Team Champions Edition and we’re adding new cards that will help players build balanced teams of all sizes. Players will have access to more cards than ever before, including premium cards that they’ bc9d6d6daa
