Go testing system. // // Example Usage // // The following is a complete example using assert in a standard test function: // import ( // "testing" // "github.com/stretchr/testify/assert" // ) // // func TestSomething(t *testing.T) { // // var a string = "Hello" // var b string = "Hello" // // assert.Equal(t, a, b, "The two words should be the same.") // // } // // if you assert many times, use the format below: // // import ( // "testing" // "github.com/stretchr/testify/assert" //

) // // func TestSomething(t
    *testing.T) { // assert := assert.New(t) // // var a string =
    "Hello" // var b string = "Hello" // // assert.Equal(a, b, "The two words
        should be the same.") // } // // Assertions // // Assertions allow you to easily write test code, and are global funcs in the `assert` package.
// All assertion functions take, as the first argument, the `*testing.T` object provided by the // testing framework. This allows the assertion funcs to write the failings and other details to // the correct place. // //

Every assertion function also takes an optional string message as the final argument, // allowing custom error messages to be appended to the message c6a93da74d
